

PRODUCT OVERVIEW

IOBG900 Portable Gas Detector Series

GIOT IOBG900 portable gas detectors bring pump-assisted sampling, a local display and measurement records to gas checks and inspection work. Select the target gas, range and accessories for your application.

Configuration highlights

- Pump-assisted sampling
- Color display and English menu option
- USB communication and charging

Configured to order. Confirm the selected model and project scope before ordering.

Start with your application

Tell us the target gas, required range, sampling location and preferred accessories. Request the model-specific specification sheet for the proposed configuration.

Gas, range and available accessories vary by configuration. Confirm the ordered instrument and its performance in the quotation.

Discuss the right configuration with GIoT

View product details and request a quotation at giotenergy.com

Technical overview

IOBG900 Portable Gas Detector Series

Configuration reference	IOBG900 series; VOC configuration available
Sampling	Internal pump
Display	Color display with gas concentration and status
Interface language	English option
Data interface	USB communication and charging
Alarm modes	Audible, visual and vibration
Data functions	Measurement records and export
Measurement range	Depends on target gas and sensor

Gas, range and available accessories vary by configuration. Confirm the ordered instrument and its performance in the quotation.

Request the specification sheet for the final configuration. This overview summarizes product options and does not define series-wide electrical or measurement ratings.